

Long Island Vettes Weekly Outlook

August 21,2010

Hello Car Guys and Gals;

Welcome to the third edition of the LIV Outlook. The Cruiser screwed up last week by listing the Northport Cruise Nite on Thursday. I guess excessive alcohol really does kill brain cells. A big LIV shout out and thanks to Andy for setting the Cruiser straight about Northport. Did we have some perfect Crusin weather this week or what... Oyster Bay was jumping Tuesday night and so was the gang at Canterbury's. In addition to the OB regulars, the Cruiser spotted a crew from Metro LI NCRS with some great looking Vettes. The Cruiser noticed that a big time LI crooner that sometime hangs in OB wasn't there this week. Perhaps he heard the Cruiser would be in town and just didn't want to share the spotlight. No problem, maybe on my way up to Carlisle, I'll catch him in Allentown.

On Sunday the Cruiser hit the Ed Mangano's Cruise Show and let me tell you if you couldn't find a sweet ride there it probably doesn't exist. Ed and the crew had everything from old police, fire and military vehicles to full blown drag cars. They even had a cool Legend race car from Riverhead Raceway, part owned and crewed by LIV's own Rich F. However, the Cruiser is pleased to report that there were more Corvettes at the show than any other model of cars. KUDOS to the members from Corvette Society, LICOA as well as Long Island Vettes for showing there support and giving back to the people of Nassau County.

Well for us Corvette guys it time to get ready for the big one, Corvettes at Carlisle. This year the crowds may not be as big as usual but we can expect Lance and the crew at Carlisle Productions to put on a great show. If you're going to Carlisle you can visit the LIV hospitality tent which, as always, is located just across from the grandstands in Row ID spots 74 thru 79. Also LIV members need to confirm their reservation with Martha Fingerhut if you want to attend the Saturday night LIV Dinner.

This Sunday, the Cruiser will hit the Wantagh Hook & Ladder's Fundraiser Car Show. Last years event was great with good food, cool cars and great music and the Crusier was promised by the Captain of the Hook & Ladder company that this years event would be bigger and better. LIV members need to remember to sign in with Lou because it is a sanctioned club event.

As always the Cruiser will be on the prowl and maybe I'll catch you hanging out too. So remember what the Cruiser always says;
